TALKING POINTS

Transparency, Equity, and Accountability Youth Instructional Materials Act

(Senate Bill 673)

Given the social-emotional and developmental aspects of children, parents are entitled to oversight and “supervision” of their elementary age children’s comprehensive sexuality education and instruction.

#1) SB 673 allows for increased parental oversight and “supervision” for sexuality education curriculum by requiring districts to place content and material online for ease of parent review. This is especially important for single working mothers who may not be able to take time off work to review curriculum at district offices.

#2) SB 673 provides increased parent oversight, which must include an “active opt-in” with a parent signature for student participation. This oversight is important for our youngest, most vulnerable children who require this increased parental “supervision” due to their age and the complexities of the content and materials.

#3) SB 673 increases protections for children (TK-6th) by closing a “loophole” in the current law, AB329 (The California Healthy Youth Act). This would ensure all curriculum is “medically accurate and age appropriate” for our youngest learners in elementary school, who deserve these protections.
